

Press Release

The Munich-based tax boutique Lemaître Taxperience has changed its name to LW TAX Lemaître Wittkowski

Munich, 10th June 2014 – the Munich-based tax consulting firm Lemaître Taxperience GmbH is as of now officially doing business under the name LW TAX Lemaître Wittkowski GmbH. The consultancy hereby affirms its commitment to its boutique concept of personal, customized and specialized client support. The two managing partners Claus Lemaître and Ansas Wittkowski decided to rename the firm after the Dutch Group, who supplied the name Taxperience, announced to terminate the alliance system by year's end. The Taxperience offices will remain a part of the larger network of LW TAX, which extends to all major international economic centers. LW TAX provides ongoing support for publically traded company groups, medium-sized businesses, private equity investors and wealthy individuals, and provides also consultation on complex tax matters to these clients. The respected law journal International Tax Review (ITR) currently ranks the firm among the top 40 best German tax firms, and it is ranked in the top 20 in the category of specialized, so-called niche tax firms.

“The new name is an expression of our cooperative consulting approach. Our clients will continue to benefit from our worldwide network,” says Claus Lemaître. Partner Ansas Wittkowski adds: “Our tax services are oriented toward the needs of our clients. In order to enable them to realize their business goals, we work together with our specialists and external partners on the national and international levels. In this way, we ensure the high standard of our consulting service.”

Included in the range of services offered by LW TAX is the support of businesses and individuals in all tax-related matters. The firm's core competencies include cross-border tax concepts as well as special topics such as merger and acquisition (M&A), recapitalization, restructuring and expatriate taxation. LW TAX often supports other tax firms with advice. Founder and tax advisor Lemaître is a recognized expert for international tax law and maintains a large base of personal contacts both nationally and abroad. In 2012 he brought Ansas Wittkowski on board as an additional specialist for international tax law.
